CHICAGO.

THE STRIKERS TALK.

CHICAGO, May 6.—The executive committee of the Trades and Labor assembly and the master workman of district assembly, No. 24, Knights of Labor, have issued an address saying that they have neither sympathy nor affiliation with any class of men who set law and order at defiance. They have consistently and persistently declined a resort to violence. Their reliance is and has been based on the justice of their cause, power of organization and sympathy of that public whose sympathy, when facts are known, is seldom misplaced. They are none the less determined to secure recognition and the adoption of the eight hour system by any and every lawful means within their power.

FEELING CONFIDENT.

There is a greater feeling of confidence apparent this morning in the ability of the authorities to preserve peace. The outlook continues threatening in certain quarters and the police expect to be called on to disperse gatherings in certain portions, but the arrest of four anarchists yesterday has insured the feeling that that element will no longer prove so troublesome.

The state's attorney says: "We will push the prosecution of the men who instigated the riot and helped to carry out the murders, as far as the law allows us."

GOING TO WORK.

Mr. Deering, of the harvester works, agreed with the men yesterday, on terms for going to work to-day, but a large crowd of strikers gathered to prevent the men from going to work. Deering made a speech, saying as honest men they were bound to keep the agreement. The crowd began to shout "eight hours." He answered he would give eight hours when the present rush of work was over. About 500 men got in aided by police and went to work.

Fully three-fourths of the McCormick harvester works employees reported for duty this morning.

The proprietors of the Deering works decided to grant a working day of eight hours and an advance of 15 per cent. on former pay. The men will return to work to-morrow morning.

THE INJURED.

The report from the county hospital this morning is that Officers Barrett, Flavin, Miller and Jacob Hanson are beyond hope of recovery. The remainder of the wounded men will probably recover. Emil Lutz, one of the civilians shot, is in a dying condition.

An incendiary fire was started in the lumber yards near the Fifth avenue bridge this morning.

BROTHERS ARRAIGNED.

Twenty rioters were arraigned this morning and held, until Saturday, in $600 bail each.

The Milwaukee and St. Paul road is working with a full force of men without molestation.

AFTER ANARCHISTS.

The police made a raid on places suspected of having anarchists war material, and have found fire arms inflammatory banners and anarchist literature in nearly all of them.

Near the Desplaines street station, last evening, Officer Madden was shot in the breast by John Loffakinski, and he retaliated by killing his assailant.

OFFICER BARRETT DEAD.

Officer Barrett, wounded Tuesday night, died this forenoon, making three deaths among the injured policemen.

Officers of the St. Paul and Fort Wayne roads obtained warrants for the arrest of four men who delayed a mail train at the Madison street viaduct and one of the number was put in irons by Marshal Marsh.

The railway managers, at their daily conference yesterday, sent to Captain Eberhold a check for $10,750 for the relief of the wounded policemen, and an equal amount was subscribed by members of the board of trade.

CHICAGO'S GREATNESS.

Why Chicagoans Boast so Extravagantly.

CHICAGO, May 6.—It is a common saying among traveled men that there only two really great cities in this country—Chicago and New York. True, Chicago is a great city, but in no respect she breathes the air and wears the color of a youthful and bounding village scarce out of her town-let swaddling clothes in the eager west. This is in the habit, indulged frequently and enthusiastically by all true Chicagoans, of boasting of themselves, their city, their future and their past. In his home praising the Chicago man is not selfish; he boasts not only of his own greatness, but of his neighbor's and his rival. So everything in or about Chicago is food for his swelling. Chicago's greatness, and the big things which may be found within or just without her wide borders, are the especial and favored subjects of his vaunting discourse.

"Why, just think of it," exclaims the Chicago man, "over on the north side lives Eudon Hubbard, who came to Chicago trading with the Indians when there weren't a half-dozen white men here. There are plenty of men still living in town who voted at the first city election, fifty years ago next spring. Then Chicago had a population of 4,000; now look at her."

And then the Chicago man waves his right hand, looks proud and invincible, and incidentally mentions that "we are crowding a million pretty close."

Here the visitor smiles incredulously, and points to the census report of 1880, which gives America's interior metropolis 508,000 souls. Incredulity is not uncommon concerning population claims of western cities. The remarkable growth of western cities is something which dwells in the efforts and cannot understand. Thirty-five years ago New York's population was greater than Chicago's, according to the last federal census, and yet here comes Chicago, talking about 1,000,000, while New York had but 1,300,000 in 1880. When New York was one of the world's great cities, with more than 500,000 inhabitants, Chicago was a country town only as big as Burlington, Ia. Four thousand in 1836, 1,000,000 in 1886; what audacity!

But truth before all things. Chicago has not 1,000,000 population, nor anything like it. In May, 1884, she had 630,000. Next May another school census will be taken, and will show about 700,000. The federal census enumerators of 1890 will find not more than 850,000, and not until the next decade has rolled two or three of its fertile summers over us will Chicago rise to the dignity of a millionaire among the world's bare dozen of millionaire cities.

Nevertheless, Chicago is big. Moreover, she is full of big things. Vastness seems indigenous to the soil which reared this young giant of the west. Great establishments grow here like weeds in spring's sunshine. Scattered about on this muddy prairie, skirting the sandy shores of the lake or pressing close to the cozy banks of an unsavory bayou, are so many things noteworthy and immense that one hesitates for a suitable beginning of their enumeration.

If Chicago is distinguished for anything, it is for her grain market. There are in this city twenty-eight grain elevators—huge structures 150 feet high, towering above surrounding objects like feudal castles above the hovels of yeomen. Railroad trains run in and out of these Gothic and big steamers deliver their black hulks within the shadows while their holds are being filled with the golden grain. No other city in the world has so many elevators, no other such storage capacity, no other handles such vast quantities of cereals. In these structures may be housed more than 36,000,000 bushels of grain, equal to a solid column 100 feet square and 3,200 feet high, or to the average wheat crop of any one of the great wheat-growing states, California alone excepted. From out of the fertile west might come an impossible freight train composed of 42,000 box cars, all laden with wheat, and, with their locomotives, reaching more than half way from Chicago to Omaha, and these mighty receptacles could swallow up all the grain, and still cry for more. One elevator could alone contain almost the entire wheat crop of the state of New Jersey, or of all New England, with that little Delaware thrown in for good measure. Two-sevenths of all wheat and one half of all flour exported from the United States in 1884 were shipped from Chicago. Naturally enough, the grain quotations made in Chicago are virtually the quotations for the world. Two hundred thousand cars of grain arrived in Chicago last year—equal, with their engines, to a solid train 1,328 miles long. Next to her grain business, Chicago is famous for her slaughter houses. As a slayer of pigs and killer of beefs she leads the world. In this kind of bloodshed she has no rival. More than 4,000,000 hogs and 1,000,000 beefs meet their fate here every year. Annually Chicago ships to the hungry of this country and the Old World something like 125,000,000 pounds of fresh beef, 40,000,000 of salt beef, 500,000,000 of pork, 360,000,000 of bacon and hams, and 250,000,000 of lard. What would the world's hungry do without Chicago? and what would Chicago do without her great slaughter houses, thirty in number, employing 30,000 men, and shipping $3,000,000 worth of product every week? Nowhere else in the world can such slaughter houses be found as here, in Chicago, where in a year Armour kills 1,000,000 hogs, 300,000 cattle and 50,000 sheep. His establishment, which covers 24 acres, contains 65 acres of floor, and gives employment to 5,000 men, and where Swift kills 400,000 cattle and ships them all east in refrigerator cars.

One of the big wonders of Chicago is the Union Stock yards, which cover 400 acres of ground, with 100 acres under cover, and having a capacity for 180,000 head of hogs, 45,000 head of cattle and 15,000 head of sheep, and 100 miles of railway track within its limits. Here 185,000 cars of stock are emptied every year; 8,000,000 animals in twelve months, or more than 22,000 every day—the value of the whole being $300,000,000. It is not easy to appreciate the vastness of such figures.

The greatest lumber yard in the world is in Chicago. Down east a half acre covered with boards is called a lumber yard. In Chicago half acres are single stacks, and the yards cover hundreds of acres. A tract more than two miles long and from one-half to three-quarters of a mile wide, skirting Chicago's unlovely but important river, is one vast lumber yard, piled high with the products of the pines. The magnificent figures in the stock account—650,000,000 feet of sawed lumber and timber, 500,000,000 shingles, 100,000,000 lath, etc.—are almost beyond comprehension, but when it is stated that this and neighboring yards contain enough material in lumber and timber alone to lay a sidewalk five feet wide around the globe, some idea may be gained of the immensity of stock on hand in these supply yards for the great west. Out of her lumber and timber on hand Chicago could build for herself a monument one-fifth of a mile square and 100 feet higher than the Washington monument, and with the shingles and lath she could surround the great pedestal with a statue 100 feet square and reaching 15,000 feet toward the heavens, where all good Chicago men hope to go.

Chicago has the biggest railways in the world. The St. Paul now has greater mileage than any other road in this or any other country—5,000 miles in all. Two other roads have more than 4,000 miles each. Chicago is the greatest railway center. Twenty-one railroads have terminal here, and the mileage is 28,000, counting nothing east of Buffalo or Pittsburg. The distinctively Chicago roads have a greater number of miles of track than any country in the world, save only this. These railroads are equipped with 6,000 engines, 3,000 passenger coaches and 200,000 freight cars. Their rolling stock would make a continuous train from this city to the eastern frontier of Maine, in no less than forty days could a man travel over all of the railroads whose metropolitan station is Chicago, riding thirty miles an hour and twenty-four hours a day. Nearly one-quarter of all the railroad mileage of the United States is in the systems directly tributary to Chicago.

But grain elevators, live stock, slaughter houses, lumber yards and railroads are not the only big things in which Chicago excels. Most people will be surprised to learn that the greatest steel works in America are in Chicago. One-half of all the steel made in the United States is the product of Illinois mills, and nine-tenths of the output in Illinois is made in the works of a Chicago company. The vast steel works at South Chicago give employment in busy seasons to 3,000 men, turn out 250,000 tons of steel in a year, using 250 ship loads of ore, 500 trains of coke and thirty cars each, 275 trains of coal, 135 trains of limestone and fifty trains of other material. These works cost $3,000,000, and there is nothing in Pennsylvania or any other state to equal them in magnitude. It was in Chicago that the first steel rail was made on this continent.

The greatest industrial city in America is another of Chicago's big things. Pullman is more than a steel city, a complete, prosperous city, with many miles of paved streets, sewers, water works, bank, newspaper, churches, opera house, library, market house, schools—all owned by the Pullman company. Every foot of ground in the place, every house is owned by the company, and the 10,000 inhabitants are mere tenants. The workmen at Pullman earn more than $3,000,000 a year in wages, the average earnings per year being $676. In Pullman the death rate is said to be the lowest in the world, 7 per 1,000 per annum; while birth rate is very high, 46 per 1,000.

The largest office building in the United States is said to be the Chicago Opera house block, which contains 349 rooms above the basement, besides a splendid opera house. In this building are more than 1,000 tenants and their employees—a town in a single roof. There are a dozen office buildings in Chicago that are almost as large as this one—some of them twelve stories high.

Some people will be surprised to learn, also, that in Chicago stands the greatest mercantile building in America. It is the dry goods house of Farwell & Co., 400 feet long and 180 feet wide, and seven stories high. This structure contains, with its two basements, twelve acres of floor space. But even this mammoth does not stand for the vastness of the vast, and another mercantile building, to contain something like twenty acres of flooring, is now rising out of the ground.

In this striking city exists the firm, one of the slaughter and packing houses already alluded to, which enjoys the distinction of selling goods of greater aggregate value per year than any other mercantile or manufacturing house, individual or corporate, in America.

But let not the attentive and possibly dazed reader think that the only big things in this city are those devised for money-getting. Chicago has the greatest park and boulevard system in the world. North and south of the city, on the lake shore, are two large and beautiful parks; west of the city are three more, and connecting them all are a series of magnificent boulevards, set with trees and neatly landscaped. The parks alone contain nearly 2,000 acres of improved ground, and are easily accessible from all parts of the city. The boulevard system entirely surrounds the town with another leading from near the center of the city west to Garfield park. In all there are more than fifty miles of fine driveways, 200 feet wide. Drexel boulevard is the finest garden thoroughfare in the New World, and the Shore drive, upon the beach of Lake Michigan, is without a rival among its kind. Only one American city, Philadelphia, excels Chicago in extent of parks, and Fairmount park is inaccessible to two-thirds of the population of that city. More the wonder, Chicago's parks have for most part been built out of marshy wastes.

There is seemingly no limit to the strikingly and comparatively big things in Chicago. We have the largest hotel, the great race track, the largest newspaper, the biggest board of trade, the largest retail store, the most extensive billiard hall, the largest cable railway, the greatest reaper factory, and, as any small boy on the corner will tell you, "the biggest baseball club in the ball country." Great is Chicago.

WASHINGTON.

The Work at the Capital To-day.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—In the senate Edmund's resolution providing for an assistant clerk for the judiciary committee for the remainder of the session at $8 a day was agreed to.

Frederick Ellison, of Indianapolis, has been nominated to be consul at Assunition, South America.

The senate has passed the postoffice appropriation bill, after adding $800,000 for carrying foreign mails in American vessels.

It is rumored that President Cleveland will go to New York on Decoration day and that when he returns to Washington it will be in company with a bride. The marriage is said to be fixed for June 9.

It comes on apparently good authority from Washington that Senator Harrison has decided not to place before the judiciary committee the charges of immorality made against District Attorney Lamb, by his party enemies at Terre Haute, believing that they have no foundation in fact, and that they cannot be proven, and that the nomination of Mr. Lamb and Mr. Hawkins will be confirmed. It is also believed that Collector Hanlon, of the Terre Haute district, will be rejected by the senate, principally on account of the recent trouble he had at Louisville with Ex-Senator Voyle, of Washington county.

Lafayette has begun boring for natural gas.

GOOD SHOOTING.

How an Eastern Sportsman Was Encouraged by a Trustful Californian.

"I heard that there was more good shooting in California than in any other State in the Union," remarked a man to a Stockton Hotel runner just after getting off an Eastern train.

"Well, I should think there was," replied the hotel runner.

"But since it has become so thickly settled, I suppose there is not near so much shooting as there used to be."

"No, nothing like so much."

"I'm a stranger in these parts, and I'm fond of shooting. I wish you would direct me as to the best place where I can find it."

"Bodie, Mono County, I think, is about the best place, but you ought to have come here about thirty years ago, because the shooting don't amount to much now, but it used to be a very uncommon thing up there for a single day to go by without somebody's being shot in some shooting scrape. Shooting's kinder dull up there now though, but the citizens generally try to make it lively for strangers, and if you go up there I guess you'll get all the chance you want to practice," and the hotel man helped the astonished stranger into the "bus and drove off.—Pacific Jester.

Dr. Crusty (an old bachelor)—No, ma'am.

Widow—You don't know if yellow means jealousy?

Dr. Crusty—No, ma'am. Yellow means biliousness.—N. Y. Sun.

Colorado's New Capital.

The "Centennial state" is about to have a capital building in the city of Denver worthy of her dazzling wealth. Like the town that could not purchase a fire engine because the wealthy citizens wanted a "steamer," and the workmen wanted a hand "jumper," Colorado has had a conflict between the bonanza members of its legislature and the hayseed representatives as to the cost of the structure. The silver nabobs would, of course, like to have much of the precious metals of which they are possessed used in the construction of the building, while a common stone structure was deemed adequate by the common graziers. Well, they compromised on a $1,000,000 building of the design shown herewith.

THE PROPOSED BUILDING.

Architects from the country over were invited to compete with designs for the building. Prizes of $1,500, $1,000 and $500 being awarded for the three best plans. Twenty sets of plans were submitted and the prizes were awarded E. E. Myers, of Detroit; F. E. Edbrooke, of Denver, and H. B. Seeley, respectively, for the three best plans, and in the order named. The design adopted being that of Mr. Myers, the one shown in our illustration.

The building is to be 295 feet long, 192 feet deep and 326 feet high, and will be constructed of smooth cut stone, quarried within the state. There are to be three floors beside a basement above ground and a sub-basement. The first floor, reached by broad steps from the four sides, will contain the offices of the governor and other state officials. The upper two stories will be taken up with the legislative chambers and the room of the supreme court, the law library and committee rooms. The rotunda in the center of the building will be forty-five feet in diameter, and will contain three balconies, one of which will be 105 feet above the first floor, over all will be a handsome dome, which will be seen for miles in all directions. The building is to be completed in 1892.

Altoona Tribune.

Last evening was the scene of a brilliant affair at the residence of Mr. John G. Kline, 501 Seventh avenue, where the fair hostess and her amiable daughters made it pleasurable for those who were in attendance, the occasion being a reception in honor of Mr. J. E. Scott Cain, who is widely known in this locality and who has many friends in Altoona. Mr. Cain, while residing here, was employed in the telegraph machine shop of the Pennsylvania railroad company, but for the last two years has been located at Fort Wayne, Indiana, where he now holds an important position with the J. E. Scott Cain Light company, of that place. After pursuing a pleasant dance program and partaking of an inviting feast, Mr. Cain received the farewells of his numerous friends, as he intends leaving for the west this morning on Pacific express, and he will ever fondly cherish in memory this social event as a reminder of his visit to the Mountain city.

A LEVEL-HEADED NEWSDEALER.

Newsdealers are as a class popularly supposed to know a good thing when they see it, and are ever on the lookout for that which will interest and please the public. In a humble way Edison was once a newsdealer, having sold papers on railroads. Among newsdealers who have a keen eye to business and to everything that can be of benefit to Mr. G. W. Dove of Vincennes, Ind., whose place of business is at No. 114 Second street, Mr. Dove was recently afflicted with rheumatism, but quickly cured himself by using Athliphoros. This is what he says about it:

"Athliphoros is a good medicine and it did for me all that I could ask. At the time when I began using it I was badly afflicted with rheumatism. I was in a helpless state and suffered untold pain, not being able to get out of bed or to be moved without enduring the greatest agony. I had read some time before of the wonderful cures of people effected by Athliphoros, and at the time tried to buy it at the drug stores, but could not find any. As I was determined to try it I sent to the company for some."

"Did it act quickly upon you?"

"I felt the effects almost immediately. After I had taken a few doses the pain subsided. The medicine seemed to go directly where the pain was."

"Have you had any return of the pain?"

"I have not suffered any to speak of since. I used only three bottles and consider it the best medicine for rheumatism that I know of. I recommended it to a gentleman in St. Louis who had his mother use some and was very much pleased with the result. I have recommended it to different persons, and in every instance where it was used it gave entire satisfaction."

J. A. Wilson, the well-known photographer, 6 and 8 Main St., New Albany, tells an equally interesting story of how Athliphoros cured him of rheumatism:

"I only used one bottle," he says. "The rheumatism was in my arms and I had sharp, shooting pains. I was suffering and complaining a great deal, when a friend coming into my gallery one morning asked me what the trouble was. I said it was rheumatism. Said my friend: 'I was reading of a medicine that is for the cure of rheumatism and neuralgia. It struck me forcibly, as it did not claim to cure every complaint that flesh is heir to.' When I asked him what it was he said the name was Athliphoros. I bought a bottle on the strength of what he said. That was all I needed. I used the one bottle over six months ago and have not had a pain or an ache from rheumatism since."

From Greencastle, Ind., D. L. Southard has this to say of what Athliphoros did for him:

"When Bishop Bowman brought me a bottle of Athliphoros I was suffering greatly from rheumatism and could scarcely move. I began taking the medicine on Thursday morning. At 9 P. M. I went to sleep and slept until 6 o'clock Friday morning, when I got up and said to my wife: 'Dear, look here, I am well.' At the first I was so much better that I stopped using the medicine and the rheumatism came back. The second attack was not stopped so easily, but still in double the time the Athliphoros removed the pain. The medicine had no unpleasant effect, but seemed to quiet, soothe and give relief."

If you cannot get Athliphoros of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to buy something else, but order at once from us, as directed, ATHLIPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

THOMSON'S PATENT GLOVE FITTING

ARE STILL TRIUMPHANT!

For fifteen years, they have steadily gained in favor, and with sales constantly increasing have become the most popular corset throughout the United States.

The G quality is warranted to wear twice as long as ordinary corsets. We have lately introduced the G and R-H grades with Extra Long Waists, and we can furnish them when preferred.

Highest awards from all the World's great Fairs. The latest medal received is for First Degree of Merit from the late Exposition held at New Orleans.

While scores of patents have been found worthless, the principles of the Glove-Fitting have proved invaluable.

Retailers are authorized to refund money, if on examination, these Corsets do not prove as represented. Address: Wm. Langdon & Co., New York, March 4-1904.

who care more to make a large profit on a worthless article than to wait for the prospect of a remedy that ultimately results from honest dealing. These are the men who when asked for a Benson's Capcine Plaster, will recommend some cheap and trashy substitute or imitation, saying it is "just as good." Sometimes they will do up and sell the miserable imitation without remark, allowing the customer to suppose he has Benson's. If the valueless plaster is returned, the shopkeeper will be made a mistake: if not, he has done a good stroke of business. The public are cautioned against John and all his ilk. Buy of respectable druggists only. The genuine Benson's Plaster has the "Three Seals" trade mark and the word "Capcine" cut in the center. If

OFFICIAL PAPER COUNTY AND CITY.

THURSDAY, MAY 6, 1886.

A NUMBER of republican leaders are doing everything in their power to capture the Knights of Labor vote.

The workmen of Fort Wayne take no stock whatever in the robbers, thieves and murderers who are causing so much trouble in Chicago.

ONE week from to-day the congressional convention will be held at Auburn. Like Col. I. B. McDonald, of the Journal, we decline to take sides. "They are all good men."

ARRANGEMENTS are being made to build a toll gravel road from this city to Decatur. We hope it will not be built as a toll road. Toll roads are now killing the business interests of Fort Wayne as rapidly as they can, and we hope no more will be built. It costs about as much to drive over a gravel toll road as it does to ride on a railroad. They charge two cents per mile on every paid gravel road leading out of Fort Wayne and farmers are seeking other places to do their trading. Give us free roads or the mud.

WHEN Hon. John C. New and a number of the prominent leaders of the republican party held a caucus in Fort Wayne, and in turn visited every city and county in the state, little attention was paid to them and their work by the democracy. It is now shown by an Indianapolis paper that they made a thorough organization of the state, and had complete poll lists made of every voting precinct in the state. It shows them thousands of votes in the minority, but they hope to win on democratic apathy. Our boys may seem inactive now, but the time has not come for them to get mad.

Sick Headache.—Thousands who have suffered intensely with sick headache say that Hood's Sarsaparilla has completely cured them. One gentleman thus relieved, writes: "Hood's Sarsaparilla is worth its weight in gold." Reader, if you are a sufferer with sick headache, give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. It will do you positive good. Made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all druggists. 100 doses $1.

Mr. Sheerin, the clerk of the supreme court, says that he will not be a candidate for renomination on the democratic ticket. He was elected in 1882, and his successor will be elected this fall. Mr. Sheerin says that promising business engagements, which he must accept now or never, render it impossible for him to accept a renomination. He will make his home in Indianapolis, which will be pleasing news to a large circle of friends.

I think Ely's Cream Balm is the best remedy for catarrh I ever saw. I never took anything that relieved me so quickly and I have not felt so well for a long time. I used to be troubled with severe headaches two or three times a week, but since using the balm have only had one and that was very light compared with the former ones.—A. J. Alcorn, agent U. P. Ry Co., Eaton, Co.

I find Ely's Cream Balm good for catarrh of long standing.—M. N. Lasley, 1934 West Chestnut St., Louisville.

Mr. W. T. Noble, of Wayne county, who made a gallant race for the republican nomination for auditor of state two years ago, has decided to become a candidate for the republican nomination for clerk of the supreme court.

Beautify Your Home.

The state Sunday school convention will be held in New Albany, June 22, 23 and 24.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Jan. 19-1904.

ANOTHER FLYING MACHINE.

An Inventor Who Intends to Navigate the Air With a Steel Balloon.

Dr. de Bausset, of Chicago, has been experimenting in the endeavor to solve the problem of aerial navigation, and has published the results of his labors. He has built an entirely novel material for the construction of his balloon, which he renders buoyant in an exceptional manner. He has made a practical test of his device, which he claims was successful. Previous workers in this direction have been making balloons of silk and muslin. Dr. Bausset proposes to use steel. The previous balloons have been filled with a light gas or heated air. In this one he expects to produce rarefied air through a partial vacuum.

The plan is to build a steel cylinder 270 feet long and 75 feet in diameter, with a 90 foot cone at each end, the entire length being 450 feet. Beneath this cylinder it is proposed to suspend a car, which will be about 120 feet long and carry the motor and a large number of passengers. The inflation process will be dispensed with and the cylinder will be almost a complete vacuum. The inventor proposes to use electricity as a motor, and expects to attain a speed of fifteen to twenty miles an hour near the earth's surface, and forty-five to sixty miles an hour at an altitude of 8,000 feet. To accomplish this he will use dynamo electric motors, which will rotate twelve screws and displace 300,000 cubic feet of air a minute. The cylinder is to be built of steel plates 24 inches long and 10 inches wide.

THE PROPOSED BALLOON IN USE.

The cylinder will be a vacuum to three-quarters one-quarter being reserved to counteract the atmospheric pressure of 3.66 pounds. To raise the aeroplane with the car attached, the machinery and 300 persons, the pressure is 8.55 pounds, giving a margin of eighty tons of air in reserve in the cylinder to carry merchandise. With the eighty tons of air displaced, the atmospheric pressure will be eleven pounds.

The doctor has tested the steel plates and found they would withstand a pressure even greater than was expected. But the all important question yet to be determined is whether airtight joints can be maintained during the rack and straining to which such a cylinder as this will be subjected. The inventor has many interesting features, and its development will be watched with interest.

Hon. J. B. Stoll makes this estimate in the South Bend Times: "Delegates to the congressional convention to be held in the Twelfth district, at Auburn, Indiana, on the 13th of May, were elected by precincts in Allen and Noble counties last Saturday. In Allen county Judge Lowry secured 32 of the 44 delegates, while Noble county gave him 11 of the 14. Whitley county is solid for Lowry, who now has over sixty delegates, considerable more than enough to nominate him on the first ballot. This result is very gratifying to the many friends of Judge Lowry."

Marion offers $65,000 and thirty acres of ground for the location of the Toledo, Cincinnati & St. Louis railroad shops there.

Three bottles of Athliphoros have entirely relieved my brother-in-law, Louis Zimmering, of rheumatism, which formerly troubled him, and he can work without the least inconvenience. William Sommers, foreman for B. F. McMillan & Bro., McMillan, Wis.

The Only Cure For Consumption.

(From the Washington, D. C. National Republic.)

The practice of drenching the human stomach with cod liver oil for consumption, is fast falling into disuse. This is owing to the utterly indigestible properties of this nauseating quackery. There is no stomach in the world that can digest cod liver oil in its pure state. For this reason, a certain per cent. of alcohol enters into the composition of this so-called relief. Consumptives, so soon as they discover the nature of their malady, rush to the nearest drug store and begin at once to take all kinds of nauseating medicines, impairing stomachs and poisoning intestines. Their stomachs soon become debilitated and deranged, and under such circumstances it is no wonder that they cannot build up the system, nor resist the waste of tissue. In the United States there is probably no disease so universally fatal and so universally feared as consumption. There are few households where there has not been at least one death from it. The public as well as the medical profession have long ago decided that medicinal agents having the character of food, are the only things that have any value in the treatment of this disease. So important is the use of alcohol in the treatment of disease, that Professor H. C. Wood, Professor of Therapeutics, University of Pennsylvania, says: "In phthisis (consumption) and its congeners (scrophulous) scrophulous, there can be no doubt as to the great value of alcohol." From a work entitled "An epitome of Medicine, Surgery, Obstetrics and Pathology," consisting of lectures by Professors of the Faculty, University of Pennsylvania, viz: Alfred Salter, M. D., L. D., D. Hayes Agnew, M. D., L. L. D.; R. A. F. Penrose, M. D., L. L. D.; James Tyson, M. D., under the head of diseases of the Bronchi and Lungs, it says: "Whiskey and food must not be neglected in the treatment of influenza. 'Alcohol and food may be considered as the type of treatment.' In the treatment of Chronic Bronchitis, 'Alcoholic stimulants must not be lost sight of, either as permanent or temporary stimulants.' In Epinephrine Asthma, 'Give alcohol.' In Pneumonia, 'Alcohol and good food are the principal elements in the treatment.' In phthisis (consumption) 'Alcoholic stimulants are nutritious and regarded as 'basal waste' they promote digestion and nutrition. Medicinal alcohol is, of course given in the form of pure whiskey. Duffy's pure malt whiskey is the standard and the purest. The proprietors of this whiskey are the only manufacturers in the world of an absolutely pure whiskey."

HOMES OF GREAT MEN.

HOUSES WHICH SHELTER DISTINGUISHED NEW ENGLANDERS.

The Contrast Between the Roomy and Restful Homes of the Past and the Oddities of Modern Architecture—Residences of the Adamses.

Our people are paying considerable attention of late years to the subject of beautiful homes. The tendency seems to be to build showy and unique structures with all sorts of surprises in the way of odd shaped rooms and curious nooks, produced by numerous gables. Windows stuck here and there are used more for the architectural requirements of the exterior, than for practical value to the interior. Then the rainbow-hued glass of the windows, the dazzling wall coverings and highly decorated ceilings, all take away from the interior that restful quality which it should be the endeavor to produce.

The nervous man of the present turns from the whirl and rush of business to the quiet of home for rest; but there, in its kaleidoscopic interior, his eye, followed by his already over excited mind, wanders round attracted by the brilliant coloring and the glistening objects, without any opportunity for repose, until often he breaks down under the bewilderment and confusion, without knowing the reason. Then the physician orders rest for him; removal to a quiet farmhouse or a trip across the sea is recommended, and why? Because the monotony of the sea is an antidote to the delirium which he has been surrounded, while the plain country farmhouse brings rest to his eyes and mind. The facts are, that in our endeavor to beautify the home we are overdoing it. We have gone from the simplicity of the Quaker meeting house to imitate the dazzling splendor of a theatre interior. The reaction has not yet made its appearance, but when it does come it is likely we will model our homes more after the stalwart Americans of the passing generation.

Let us look at some of their homes, and as the New England states were the earliest settled we will find most of them there.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL'S RESIDENCE.
The home of the late Henry W. Longfellow has been often described and its appearance is familiar to most readers. It was built in the early part of the last century by a wealthy West India trader who settled down to end his days in Cambridge. His son succeeded to the estate and lorded over the young colony. When the revolution swept over New England the house was confiscated after its Tory proprietor fled. During the siege of Boston it was assigned to Washington as headquarters, and he who so much needed rest and had had an opportunity of testing the soothing qualities of the best homes in America, pronounced this house at Cambridge one of the most comfortable he had found. After the war Andrew Craigie, the apothecary general of the army, purchased it, and here it was epigrammatic old Talleyrand was entertained, and Everett, Sparks and Worcester, while a college professor, was also a boarder there, and later purchased it so that it will remain in history as Longfellow's home. Yet this house after all was but a plain, square two story wooden structure, with a broad hall, easy ascending staircase and plain, hard finished walls in its spacious old rooms, but there is an air of repose about the whole that is rarely met with in modern homes.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS' HOME.
Then there is the residence of Charles Francis Adams, at Quincy, Mass. This house was built by a rich English planter who also "skiddled" at the outbreak of the revolution. It was purchased by the future president of the United States, John Adams, and it was here, just fifty years to a day after signing the Declaration of Independence, that he passed away. It was also the home of his son, the president, John Quincy Adams. Few houses have entertained more distinguished men beneath its ample roof. During the trying times of the post-revolution period it was the resort of the men who were endeavoring to adjust the wheels of our new government. How unpretentious the mansion is our illustration shows, but its rooms are large and comfortable, with big fireplaces and chimneys and an air of quiet about the whole interior.

RESIDENCE OF JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.
The eldest of the present representatives of the family lives in a house of modern construction, but it has at least the advantage in its site of a commanding view of Boston harbor. This is one improvement we have made on those who have gone before. We are choosing better sites for our houses, for the reason probably that a fine view costs nothing to preserve. Another house, which to our modern ideas, would be considered a barn-like structure, is the residence of James Russell Lowell. The house was once the home of Elbridge Gerry, another of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and it was here that our poet Lowell was born, reared, and has always lived. Everything about this house impresses one also with that feeling of rest and roomy comfort to be found in these old homes. Would that our modern architects would take some lessons from them. STEPHEN HENRY.

Good Enough for Him.
"Good morning, Levy; I thought I'd just drop in and call your attention to a mistake in your sign. It reads 'closed for alterations' instead of 'closed for alterations.'" "Well, my friend, I think I know my pizness, ain't it? I shust kissed Rachael Liebenstein vonce behind the door, und Mrs. Levy vas see dot, und vo haf some leetle difference oof opinion about it this morning already, und so I glose the shop. I tink I leet dot sign stay."—Chicago Rambler.

Too Much Curiosity.
There is trouble between two colored families on Austin avenue that live very close to each other. Deacon Snodgrass reached over the fence and said, in a tremulous voice, to Mrs. Snowball: "Lubly ooman, jess lemme taste dem lips. I only wants to find ef dey don't taste better den my wife's." "Ef dat am what yer wants ter know, you can find dat out by asking my husband. Like Oliver Twist.
"Mr. Featherly," said young Bobby, "who was Oliver Twist?" "Oliver Twist," explained Featherly, indugently, "was a character created by Dickens. You must read the book when you get a little older, and then you'll know all about him." "Was he any thing like you?" "Like me? Oh, no." "How's that, Clara?" inquired Bobby, turning to his sister. "Didn't you tell Mr. Featherly in the hall last night that he was like Oliver Twist, always wanting more?"—N. Y. Times.

At a Watering Place.

Colonel Yerger, while making some purchases at the corner grocery, said to the proprietor, whose boorishness has become proverbial: "That salt you sold me was awful coarse." "It's not my fault. A Frightful Loss.
Ponsonby—I saw you playing billiards last night with Litewaitte. How did you come out? De Guy—Lost twelve hundred dollars on eight games. "Merciful smoke, what a loss!" "I should say so; and the worst of it was that two dollars of it was cash."—Philadelphia Call.

escaped from Officer Shaffer, of the police force, is again at Indianapolis. He says that he has just come from Alaska
and is prosperous and happy. The last account received here of George was that he was again in trouble in California and able George on the Pacific coast.

Married, at Ashland, Ohio, yesterday
evening at half-past 6 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr.
John Thieme, of this city, to Miss Helen Crall, of Ashland. Miss Crall is well known in this city, and Mr. Thieme is one of our most popular young merchants. The SENTINEL wishes the young couple much happiness and joy, and may
the choicest blessings of heaven be continually upon them. They will arrive in

"The case of the state against Phillip
Long, charging the defendant with incest goes over to the September term.
Long was arrested at Fort Wayne.
Public sentiment among the neighbors
of the accused is changing wonderfully in his favor, and the rash excitement of the hour, in which the charge was made
is giving up to solemnity and reason.
The self appointed guardian and manager of the accusation, by his officious-
ness and indiscreet talk, has made himself the target of very many arrows of suspicion. It may turn out a case of cutting off noses to spoil, etc.," says the Columbia City Post.

Those who fail to see the "Box of Cash" at the opera house, said a recent issue of the Utica (N. Y.) Observer, will miss a very funny show. The company
opened last night to a good sized house,
which is liable to be the smallest of the week. The piece is clean and free from objectionable features. Miss Edith Sinclair plays Grace Ford charmingly, and
is as well an excellent singer. Her solo, "My Irish Home," was nicely rendered and enthusiastically encored. Mr.
Favor, as "Timothy O'Hara," made a decidedly favorable impression, and is
the best Irish comedian seen at the opera house this season. The piece will receive its first presentation in Fort Wayne this evening at the Academy of Music, and will continue the balance of
the week.

is still blocked because a broken culvert is not repaired. This is the best drive out of the city and should be opened at once.

ty. Of this number 15,087 are in the city and 10,351 in the townships.

Last evening, while a hand car was returning to Van Wert from the west on the Pittsburg road, Elmer Shreekeganst fell off backward, striking the back of his head on the rails. His neck was broken.
The deceased is a stranger, and began work on the section Monday morning.
Coroner McGovern held an inquest and will make an effort to find the dead man's to the annual meeting of the board of the northwest. Members attending will please be prepared to answer to roll call

with a verse of scripture or an appropriate quotation.

The boycott of postmasters, by dumping the mail in the car at villages around Fort Wayne, to prevent them from
making a paltry commission is over-
working mail clerks and an investigation is being secretly made by the department. There will be some mail carriers and railroad agents displaced beto A. Lordier to build an addition to his frame house, lot 5, Lesalle's addition, to cost $100, to Charles Kohn, to repair

frame house, lot 95, Chute's homestead, to cost $150; Simon Martin, to build a one story frame house, lot 2, Farnan's addition, to cost $800; H. P. Workman, to build an addition to frame house on Lillie's out lot, to cost $50.

The advertisement asking for proposals for the construction of the Little River ditch is published in The SENTINEL,
the Chicago Times, the Cincinnati
Enquirer, St. Louis Globe-Democrat,
the Toledo Blade and a few other papers.
It appears in each of the papers Thursdays and Saturdays until July, when
the contract is awarded, and for the publication the Cincinnati Enquirer yesterday sent in a bill for $69. It pays to advertise the work, however, as it is the biggest ditch contract ever let in this country outside of Florida. The men assessed heaviest for the work are all very wealthy save one or two.

over four-fifths of the stock is already subscribed for, and the certificates have been surrendered to the purchasing committee.

LETTING UP.

The Fort Wayne Railroads Getting a Little Freight to Chicago.

The Pittsburg and Nickel Plate roads
are getting some freight to and from Chicago. The Pittsburg road sent a train load of freight to Chicago last night. The cars belong to other roads
and require no handling at Chicago.
Pittsburg passenger train No. 4 was delayed an hour at Chicago because the strikers would not permit anybody to
turn a switch.

The Nickel Plate people are hopeful
and Mr. Barnard tells us that his men
are doing a light freight business. Supt.
C. D. Gorham, of the Nickel Plate, and Supt. Law, of the Pittsburg, are at Chicago, watching their interests.

This morning the Pittsburg company
engaged and collected 150 or 200 men in
the city and took them in a special train
to Chicago to handle freight there. They are picking up men en route and the officers here are ready to employ a hundred
more men who offer their services for
good wages. It is undoubtedly the purpose of the company to refuse employment to its Chicago employees again.

The carpenters of the Pittsburg shop
at Chicago struck yesterday for eight hours and ten hours pay. This led to the rumor that the carpenters in the
shops here had demanded similar rates,
but the local officers deny it. It is said
the carpenters will strike to-morrow and
rumors of strikes in other shops are rife,
but evidently emanate from idle tongues.

There is a belief here that the magnitude of the trouble has been withheld
from the public. The Associated Press,
however, would enter into no such arrangement as that and THE SENTINEL
readers can rely that they have the bottom facts in the Chicago riots, as well as
the troubles elsewhere.

The workmen here exhibit a dislike
for strikes and are determined to obey
Master Workman Powderly's mandate
against strikes. Strikes give socialists,
gamblers and loafers an opportunity to murder, pillage and burn. The Knights
must stand the blunt of this fearful
work because they open the way and
give it an opportunity.

Powderly Will Not Come

Mr. T. V. Powderly, general master
workman of the Knights of Labor, replying to a letter addressed to him by Mr. E. T. Oburn, president of the Indianapolis typographical union, writing
him to fix a date when he could deliver
a lecture in Indianapolis, states that his
time is so occupied with the many duties
of his arduous position that it is quite
out of his power to comply with the request, much as he would like to do so.
Mr. Powderly has entered into an arrangement with Mr. Pond, the noted
lecture agent, to deliver fifteen lectures
next season at different points in the country. Mr. Oburn was formerly a typo on THE SENTINEL and married a Fort Wayne girl.

closure.
Chas. S. Bash et al, vs. Henry Bur-gees, et al, report of Joseph H. Orr, receiver, filed and approved.
Rhess Swinney vs. Frederick C. Barrett et al, judgment for $359.29, on a
note.

What is the Matter?

Joseph Proctor played to less than fifty people at the Temple opera house
last night. His "Virginia" was good
and his support was excellent. He deserves better patronage, but there is no
prospect that he will fare better to-night,
when he presents "Nick of the Woods."
The Academy is doing nothing and
this fact proves that prices have nothing to do with the dullness. There seems to be no money for amusements, or else
the fancy of the people lightly turns to picnics, spring poetry and love.

Almost as Good as New.

If you have a suit of clothes that is
soiled and unfit to wear, you can have
it made almost as good as new by calling on Mr. G. Schroeder, 129 Calhoun street.
He is not only a practical tailor, but a renovator and cleaner that has few equals anywhere. He has worked in Fort Wayne for thirty-five years, and is well known by all our people. He has conducted business at his present stand
for over sixteen years. He will not injure the cloth, but make it bright and sparkle like new goods. You can have
your old suit for a very small sum, made
to look like a new wedding suit. Do
not throw away your clothes, take them
to him and have them done over, renovated and cleaned. You will never regret it after you see them finished.

Dr. Warner's Corsets must go, if reduced prices will do it.
SAMUEL CHASKA,
72 Calhoun street.

A DUDE'S FALL.

Charley Cornwell, Formerly a Ft.
Wayne Bank Clerk, Gets
Two Years.

A special dispatch from Washington
to the Indianapolis Journal says: "Chas.
Cornwell, for several years book-keeper
in national banks at Logansport and
Fort Wayne, and lately in the employ of Kendall & Co., hardware merchants, of
this city, and sentenced in the criminal
court here, Saturday, to two years in the penitentiary upon conviction of house-
breaking, will probably be pardoned before he is sent to the penitentiary. Senator Voorhees and Representative Owen
have interested themselves in behalf of Cornwell, and have procured a stay of
execution of sentence till the application
for a pardon can be acted upon. Corn-
well was found on the premises of Kendall & Co. after he was discharged, and
after business hours, with duplicate keys
on his person, and as some goods were missing he was suspected of taking them. For some time Cornwell has been dissipating. He has a brother in the government printing office, and has other
reputable relatives here."

Cornwell used to hold a clerical position in the Hamilton bank. He was a dude and society petted him.

CHICAGO.

THE STRIKERS TALK.

CHICAGO, May 6.—The executive committee of the Trades and Labor assembly and the master workman of district assembly, No. 24, Knights of Labor, have issued an address saying that they have neither sympathy nor affiliation with any class of men who set law and order at defiance. They have consistently and persistently declined a resort to violence. Their reliance is and has been based on the justice of their cause, power of organization and sympathy of that public whose sympathy, when facts are known, is seldom misplaced. They are none the less determined to secure recognition and the adoption of the eight hour system by any and every lawful means within their power.

FEELING CONFIDENT.

There is a greater feeling of confidence apparent this morning in the ability of the authorities to preserve peace. The outlook continues threatening in certain quarters and the police expect to be called on to disperse gatherings in certain portions, but the arrest of four anarchists yesterday has insured the feeling that that element will no longer prove so troublesome.

The state's attorney says: "We will push the prosecution of the men who instigated the riot and helped to carry out the murders, as far as the law allows us."

GOING TO WORK.

Mr. Deering, of the harvester works, agreed with the men yesterday, on terms for going to work to-day, but a large crowd of strikers gathered to prevent the men from going to work. Deering made a speech, saying as honest men they were bound to keep the agreement. The crowd began to shout "eight hours." He answered he would give eight hours when the present rush of work was over. About 500 men got in sided by police and went to work.

Fully three-fourths of the McCormick harvester works employees reported for duty this morning.

The proprietors of the Deering works decided to grant a working day of eight hours and an advance of 15 per cent. on former pay. The men will return to work to-morrow morning.

THE INJURED.

The report from the county hospital this morning is that Officers Barrett, Flavin, Miller and Jacob Hanson are beyond hope of recovery. The remainder of the wounded men will probably recover. Emil Lutz, one of the civilians shot, is in a dying condition.

An incendiary fire was started in the lumber yards near the Fifth avenue bridge this morning.

MURDERERS ARRANGED.

Twenty rioters were arraigned this morning and held, until Saturday, in $500 bail each.

The Milwaukee and St. Paul road is working with a full force of men without molestation.

AFTER ANARCHISTS.

The police made a raid on places suspected of having anarchists war material, and have found fire arms inflammatory banners and anarchist literature in nearly all of them.

Near the Desplaines street station, last evening, Officer Madden was shot in the breast by John Lofkinkin, and he retaliated by killing his assailant.

OFFICER BARRETT DEAD.

Officer Barrett, wounded Tuesday night, died this forenoon, making three deaths among the injured policemen.

Officers of the St. Paul and Fort Wayne roads obtained warrants for the arrest of four men who delayed a mail train at the Madison street viaduct and one of the number was put in irons by Marshal Marsh.

The railway managers, at their daily conference yesterday, sent to Captain Eberhold a check for $10,750 for the relief of the wounded policemen, and an equal amount was subscribed by members of the board of trade.

CHICAGO'S GREATNESS.

Why Chicagoans Boast so Extravagantly.

Chicago, May 6.—It is a common saying among traveled men that there only two really great cities in this country—Chicago and New York. True, Chicago is a great city, but in one respect she breathes the air and wears the color of a youthful and bounding village scarce out of her town-let swaddling clothes in the eager west. This is in the habit, indulged frequently and enthusiastically by all true Chicagoans, of boasting of themselves, their city, their future and their past. In his home praising the Chicago man is not selfish; he boasts not only of his own greatness, but of his neighbors and his rival. So everything in or about Chicago is food for his swelling. Chicago's greatness, and the big things which may be found within or just without her wide borders, are the especial and favored subjects of his vaunting discourse.

"Why, just think of it," exclaims the Chicago man, "over on the north side lives Emmon Hubbard, who came to Chicago trading with the Indians when there weren't a half dozen white men here. There are plenty of men still living in town who voted at the first city election, fifty years ago next spring. Then Chicago had a population of 4,000; now look at her."

And then the Chicago man waves his right hand, looks proud and invincible, and incidentally mentions that "we are crowding a million pretty close."

Here the visitor smiles incredulously, and points to the census report of 1880, which gives America's interior metropolis 293,000 souls.

Incredulity is not uncommon concerning population claims of western cities. The remarkable growth of western cities is something which dwellers in the affluence east cannot understand. Thirty-five years ago New York's population was greater than Chicago's, according to the last federal census, and yet here comes Chicago, talking about 1,000,000, while New York had but 1,000,000 in 1880. When New York was one of the world's great cities, with more than 500,000 inhabitants, Chicago was a country town only as big as Burlington, Ia. Four thousand in 1830, 1,000,000 in 1880; what a leap!

But truth before all things. Chicago has not 1,000,000 population, nor anything like it. In May, 1884, she had 630,000. Next May another school census will be taken, and will show about 700,000. The federal census enumerators of 1890 will find not more than 800,000, and not until the next decade has rolled two or three of its fertile summers over us will Chicago rise to the dignity of a millionaire among the world's bare dozen of millionaire cities.

Nevertheless, Chicago is big. Moreover, she is full of big things. Vastness seems indigenous to the soil which reared this young giant of the west. Great establishments grow here like weeds in spring's sunshine. Scattered about on this muddy prairie, skirting the sandy shores of the lake or pressing close to the cozy banks of an unsavory bayou, are so many things noteworthy and immense that one hesitates for a suitable beginning of their enumeration.

If Chicago is distinguished for anything, it is for her grain market. There are in this city twenty-eight grain elevators—huge structures 150 feet high, towering above surrounding objects like feudal castles above the hovels of yeoman. Railroad trains run in and out of these hollows, and big steamers shelter their black hulls within the shadows while their holds are being filled with the golden grain. No other city in the world has so many elevators, no other such storage capacity, no other handles such vast quantities of cereals. In these structures may be housed more than 25,000,000 bushels of grain, equal to a solid column 100 feet square and 3,200 feet high, to the average wheat crop of any one year, to the average wheat crop of California alone accepted. From out of the fertile west might come an impossible freight train composed of 42,000 box cars, all laden with wheat, and, with their locomotives, reaching more than half way from Chicago to Omaha, and these mighty receptacles could swallow up all the grain, and still cry for more. One elevator could alone contain almost the entire wheat crop of the state of New Jersey, or of all New England, with that of little Delaware thrown in for good measure. Two-sevenths of all wheat and one half of all flour exported from the United States in 1884 were shipped from Chicago. Naturally enough, the grain quotations made in Chicago are virtually the quotations for the world. Two hundred thousand cars of grain arrived in Chicago last year—equal, with their engines, to a solid train 1,325 miles long. Next to her grain business, Chicago is famous for her slaughter houses. As a slayer of pigs and killer of beefs she leads the world. In this kind of bloodshed she has no rival. More than 4,000,000 hogs and 1,000,000 beefs meet their fate here every year. Annually Chicago ships to the hungry of this country and the Old World something like 125,000,000 pounds of fresh beef, 40,000,000 of salt beef, 50,000,000 of pork, 800,000,000 of bacon and hams, and 250,000,000 of lard. What would the world's hungry do without Chicago and what would Chicago do without her great slaughter houses, thirty in number, employing 30,000 men, and shipping $2,000,000 worth of product every week? Nowhere else in the world can such slaughter houses be found as here, in Chicago, where in a year Armour kills 1,000,000 hogs, 300,000 cattle and 50,000 sheep. This establishment, which covers 24 acres, contains 65 acres of floor, and gives employment to 5,000 men, and where Swift kills 400,000 cattle and ships them all east in refrigerator cars.

One of the big wonders of Chicago is the Union Stock yards, which cover 400 acres of ground, with 100 acres under cover, and having a capacity for 180,000 head of hogs, 45,000 head of cattle and 15,000 head of sheep, and 100 miles of railway track within its limits. Here 185,000 cars of stock are unloaded every year; 8,000,000 animals in twelve months, or more than 22,000 every day—the value of the whole being $300,000,000. It is not easy to appreciate the vastness of such figures.

The greatest lumber yard in the world is in Chicago. Down east a half acre covered with boards is called a lumber yard. In Chicago half acres are single stacks, and the yards cover hundreds of acres. A tract more than two miles long and from one-half to three-quarters of a mile wide, skirting Chicago's unlively but important river, is one vast lumber yard, piled high with the products of the pineries. The magnificent figures in the stock account—450,000 feet of sawed lumber and timber, 500,000,000 shingles, 100,000,000 lath, etc.—are almost beyond comprehension, but when it is stated that this and neighboring yards contain enough material in lumber and timber alone to lay a sidewalk five feet wide around the globe, some idea may be gained of the immensity of stock on hand in these supply yards for the great west. Out of her lumber and timber on hand Chicago could build for herself a monument one-fifth of a mile square and 100 feet higher than the Washington monument, and with the shingles and lath she could surround this great pedestal with a statue 100 feet square and reaching 15,000 feet toward the heavens, where all good Chicago men hope to go.

Chicago has the biggest railway in the world. The St. Paul now has greater mileage than any other road in this or any other country—5,000 miles in all. Two other roads have more than 4,000 miles each. Chicago is the greatest railway center. Twenty-two railroads have termini here, and their mileage is 28,000, counting nothing east of Buffalo or Pittsburg. The distinctively Chicago roads have a greater number of miles of track than any country in the world, save only this. These railroads are equipped with 6,000 engines, 8,000 passenger coaches and 200,000 freight cars. Their rolling stock would make a continuous train from this city to the eastern frontier of Maine. In no less than forty days could a man travel over all of the railroads whose metropolitan station is Chicago, riding thirty miles an hour and twenty-four hours a day. Nearly one-quarter of all the railroad mileage of the United States is in the systems directly tributary to Chicago.

But grain elevators, live stock, slaughter houses, lumber yards and railroads are not the only big things in which Chicago excels. Most people will be surprised to learn that the greatest steel works in America are in Chicago. One-half of all the steel made in the United States is the product of Illinois mills, and nine-tenths of the output in Illinois is made in the works of a Chicago company. The first steel works at South Chicago give employment in busy seasons to 3,000 men, turn out 250,000 tons of steel in a year, using 250 ship loads of ore, 500 trains of coke of thirty cars each, 570 trains of coal, 135 trains of limestone and fifty trains of other material. These works cost $3,000,000, and there is nothing in Pennsylvania or any other state to equal them in magnitude. It was in Chicago that the first steel rail was made on this continent.

The greatest industrial city in America is another of Chicago's big things. Pullman is more than a town—it is a complete, prosperous city, with many miles of paved streets, sewers, water works, bank, newspaper, churches, opera house, library, market house, schools—all owned by the Pullman company. Every foot of ground in the place, every house is owned by the company, and the 10,000 inhabitants are mere tenants. The workmen at Pullman earn more than $2,000 a year in wages, the average earnings per year being $275. In Pullman the death rate is said to be the lowest in the world, 7 per 1,000 per annum; while birth rate is very high, 46½ per 1,000.

The largest office building in the United States is said to be the Chicago Opera house block, which contains 319 rooms above the basement, besides a splendid opera house. In this building are more than 1,000 tenants and their employees—a town under a single roof. There are a dozen other buildings in Chicago that are almost as large as this one—some of them twelve stories high.

Some people will be surprised to learn, also, that in Chicago stands the greatest mercantile building in America. It is the dry goods house of Parvill & Co., 400 feet long and 180 feet wide, and seven stories high. This structure contains, with its two basements, twelve acres of floor space. But even this mammoth does not satisfy Chicago's greed for the vast, and another mercantile building of floor space is now rising out of the ground.

In this striping city exists the firm, one of the slaughter and packing houses already alluded to, which enjoys the distinction of selling goods of greater aggregate value per year than any other mercantile or manufacturing house, individual or corporate, in America.

But let not the attentive and possibly dazzled reader think that the only big things in this city are those devised for money-getting. Chicago has the greatest park and boulevard system in the world. North and south of the city, on the lake shore, are two large and beautiful parks; west of the city are three more, and connecting them all are a series of magnificent boulevards, set with trees and finely landscaped. The parks alone contain nearly 3,000 acres of improved ground, and are easily accessible from all parts of the city. The boulevard system entirely surrounds the town with another leading from near the center of the city west to Garfield park. In all there are more than fifty miles of fine driveways, 300 feet wide. Drexel boulevard is the finest garden thoroughfare in the New World, and the Shore drive, upon the beach of Lake Michigan, is without a rival among its kind. Only one American city, Philadelphia, excels Chicago in extent of parks, and Fairmount park is inaccessible to two-thirds of the population of that city. More the wonder, Chicago's parks have for most part been built up out of marshy wastes. There is seemingly no limit to the strikingly and comparatively big things in Chicago. We have the largest hotel, the greatest race track, the largest newspaper, the biggest board of trade, the largest retail store, the most extensive billiard hall, the largest cable railway, the greatest reaper factory, and, as any small boy on the corner will tell you, "de biggest baseball club in de ball country." Great is Chicago.

At 10 o'clock a crowd of several hundred strikers was assembling near the western limit of the city, but the appearance of the police scattered them in every direction.

The arrest of the socialist who have been instrumental in urging the riots, have been continued this afternoon. In houses of two were found a number of guns, pistols and a large amount of ammunition concealed in the bedding.

WASHINGTON.

The Work at the Capital To-day.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—In the senate Edmund's resolution providing for an assistant clerk for the judiciary committee for the remainder of the session at $8 a day was agreed to.

Frederick Ellison, of Indianapolis, has been nominated to be consul at Assunition, South America.

The senate has passed the postoffice appropriation bill, after adding $500,000 for carrying foreign mails in American vessels.

It is rumored that President Cleveland will go to New York on Decoration day and that when he returns to Washington it will be in company with a bride. The marriage is said to be fixed for June 9.

It comes on apparently good authority from Washington that Senator Harrison has decided not to place before the judiciary committee the charges of immorality made against District Attorney Lamb, by his party enemies at Terre Haute, believing that they have no foundation in fact, and that they cannot be proven, and that the nomination of Mr. Lamb and Mr. Hawkins will be confirmed. It is also believed that Collector Hanson, of the Terre Haute district, will be rejected by the senate, principally on account of the recent trouble he had at Louisville with Ex-Senator Vayles, of Washington county.

Lafayette has begun boring for natural gas.

GOOD SHOOTING.

How an Eastern Sportsman Was Encouraged by a Trustful Californian.

"I heard that there was more good shooting in California than in any other State in the Union," remarked a man to a Stockton Hotel runner just after getting off an Eastern train.

"Well, I should think there was," replied the hotel runner.

"But since it has become so thickly settled, I suppose there is not near so much shooting as there used to be?"

"No, nothing like so much."

"I'm a stranger in these parts, and I'm fond of shooting. I wish you would direct me as to the best place where I can find it." "Bodie, Mono County, I think, is about the best place, but you ought to have come here about thirty years ago, stranger. The shooting don't amount to much now, but it used to be a very uncommon thing up there for a single day to go by without somebody's being shot in some shooting scrape. Shooting's kinder dull up there now though, but the citizens generally try to make it lively for strangers, and if you go up there I guess you'll get all the chance you want to practice," and the hotel man helped the astonished stranger into the "bus and drove off—Pacific Jester.

Dr. Crusty—No, ma'am. Yellow means biliousness.—M. Y. Sun.

Colorado's New Capital.

The "Centennial state" is about to have a capitol building in the city of Denver worthy of her dazzling wealth. Like the town that could not purchase a fire engine because the wealthy citizens wanted a "steamer" and the workmen wanted a hand "jumper," Colorado has had a conflict between the bonanza members of its legislature and the hazy representatives as to the cost of the structure. The silver nabobs would, of course, like to have much of the precious metals of which they are possessed used in the construction of the building, while a common sense structure was deemed adequate by the common graziers. Well, they compromised on a $1,000,000 building of the design shown herewith.

THE PROPOSED BUILDING.

Architects from the country over were invited to compete with designs for the building. Prizes of $1,500, $1,000 and $500 being awarded for the three best plans. Twenty sets of plans were submitted and the prizes were awarded E. E. Myers, of Detroit; F. E. Edbrooke, of Denver, and H. B. Seelye, respectively, for the three best plans, and in the order named. The design adopted being that of Mr. Myers, the one shown in our illustration.

The building is to be 225 feet long, 192 feet deep and 225 feet high, and will be constructed of smooth cut stone, quarried within the state. There are to be three floors beside a basement above ground and a sub-basement. The first floor, reached by broad steps from the four sides, will contain the offices of the governor and other state officials. The upper two stories will be taken up with the legislative chambers and the room of the supreme court, the law library and committee rooms. The rotunda in the center of the building will be forty-five feet in diameter, and will contain three balconies, one of which will be 105 feet above the first floor, over all will be a handsome dome, which will be seen for miles in all directions. The building is to be completed in 1900.

ALTOONA TRIBUNE.

Last evening was the scene of a brilliant affair at the residence of Mr. John G. Kline, 501 Seventh avenue, where the fair business and her amiable daughter made it pleasurable for those who were in attendance, the occasion being a reception in honor of Mr. J. E. Scott Cain, who is widely known in this locality and who has many friends in Altoona. Mr. Cain, while residing here, was employed in the telegraph machine shop of the Pennsylvania railroad company, but for the last two years has been located at Fort Wayne, Indiana, where he now holds an important position with the Jeany Electric Light company, of that place. After pursuing a pleasant dance program and partaking of an inviting feast, Mr. Cain received the farewells of his numerous friends, as he intended leaving for the west this morning on Pacific express, and he will ever fondly cherish in memory this social event as a reminder of his visit to the Mountain city.

HOMES OF GREAT MEN.
HOUSES WHICH SHELTER DISTINGUISHED NEW ENGLANDERS.
The Contrast Between the Roomy and Restful Homes of the Past and the Oddities of Modern Architecture—Residences of the Adamases.
Our people are paying considerable attention to the subject of beautiful homes. The tendency seems to be to build showy and unique structures with all sorts of surprises in the way of odd shaped rooms and curious nooks, produced by numerous gables. Windows stuck here and there are used more for the architectural requirements of the exterior, than for practical value to the interior. Then the rainbow-hued coverings of the windows, the dazzling wall coverings and highly decorated ceilings, all take away from the interior that restful quality which it should be the endeavor to produce.
The nervous man of the present turns from the whirl and rush of business to the quiet of home for rest; but there, in its kaleidoscopic interior, his eye, followed by his already over excited mind, wanders round attracted by the brilliant coloring and the glistening objects, without any opportunity for repose, until often he breaks down under the bewilderment and confusion, without knowing the reason. Then the physician orders rest for him; removal to a quiet farmhouse or a trip across the sea is recommended—and why? Because the monotony of the sea is an antidote to the delirium with which he has been surrounded, while the plain country farmhouse brings rest to his eyes and mind.
The facts are, that in our endeavor to beautify the home we are overdoing it. We have gone from the simplicity of the Quaker meeting house to imitate the dazzling splendor of a theatre interior. The reaction has not yet made its appearance, but when it does come it is likely we will model our homes more after the stalwart Americans of the passing generation.
Let us look at some of their homes, and as the New England states were the earliest settled we will find most of them there.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL'S RESIDENCE.
The home of the late Henry W. Longfellow has been often described and its appearance is familiar to most readers. It was built in the early part of the last century by a wealthy West India trader who settled down to end his days in Cambridge. His son succeeded to the estate and lived over the young colony. When the revolution swept over New England the house was confiscated after its Tory proprietor fled. During the stage of Boston it was assigned to Washington as headquarters, and he who so much needed rest and had had no opportunity of testing the soothing qualities of the best homes in America, pronounced this house at Cambridge one of the most comfortable he had found. After the war Andrew Craigie, the apothecary general of the army, purchased it, and here it was epigrammatic old Talleyrand was entertained, and Everett, Sparks and Worcester, while a college professor, was also a boarder there, and later purchased it so that it will remain in history as Longfellow's home. Yet this house after all was but a plain, square two story wooden structure, with broad piazzas on two sides. The interior is made up of a broad hall, with a second staircase and plain, hard finished walls in its spacious old rooms, but there is an air of repose about the whole that is rarely met with in modern homes.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS' HOME.
Then there is the residence of Charles Francis Adams, at Quincy, Mass. This house was built by a rich English planter who also "skedaddled" at the outbreak of the revolution. It was purchased by the future president of the United States, John Adams, and it was here, just fifty years to a day after signing the Declaration of Independence, that he passed away. It was also the home of his son, the president, John Quincy Adams. Few houses have entertained more distinguished men beneath its simple roof. During the trying times of the post-revolution period it was the resort of the men who were endeavoring to adjust the wheels of our new government.
How unpretentious the mansion is our illustration shows, but its rooms are large and comfortable, with big fireplaces and chimneys and an air of quiet about the whole interior.

RESIDENCE OF JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.
The oldest of the present representatives of the family lives in a house of modern construction, but it has at least the advantage in its site of a commanding view of Boston harbor. This is one improvement we have made on those who have gone before. We are choosing better sites for our houses, for the reason probably that a fine view costs nothing to preserve.
Another home, which to our modern ideas, would be considered a barn-like structure, is the residence of James Russell Lowell. The house was once the home of Elbridge Gerry, another of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and it was here that our poet Lowell was born, reared, and has always lived. Everything about this house impresses one also with that feeling of rest and roomy comfort to be found in these old homes. Would that our modern architects would take some lessons from them.

Good Enough for Him.
"Good morning, Levy; I thought I'd just drop in and call your attention to a mistake in your sign. It reads 'closed for alterations' instead of 'closed for alterations.'" "Vell, my friend, I think I know my pinnos, ain't it? I shutt kessel Rachael (Lichtenstein) vonce behind the door, and Mrs. Levy vas so dot, und va hat some lech difference of opinion about it this morning already, und so I gloss the shop. I think I feel dot sign stay."—Chicago Rumbler.

Too Much Curiosity.
There is trouble between two colored families on Austin avenue that live very close to each other. Deacon Snodgrass reached over the fence and said, in a tremulous voice, to Mrs. Snowball: "Lubly ooman, jess lemme taste dem lips. I only wants to find out dey don't taste better den my wife's." "Ef dat am what yer wants ter know, you can find dat out by asking my husband. I has cotched him three or four times smacking you wife's lips," responded Mrs. Snowball, indignantly.—Texas Sittings.

Like Oliver Twist.
"Mr. Featherly," said young Bobby, "who was Oliver Twist?" "Oliver Twist," explained Featherly, indulgently, "was a character created by Dickens. You must read the book when you get a little older, and then you'll know all about him." "Was he any thing like you?" "Like me? Oh, no!" "How's that, Clara?" inquired Bobby, turning to his sister. "Didn't you tell Mr. Featherly the hall last night that he was like Oliver Twist, always wanting more?"—N.Y. Times.

At a Watering Place.
He—The hours which I have in your presence have belonged to the happiest of my life. I depart with numerous woes, and will you never forget. She—Noble friend, long have I struggled, and would gladly have spared you the worst, but I dare not. But I must you let go without consolation and without hope. Forgive me that from you until for day concealed have I what I should have revealed long since already. I—alas—I am married. He—So am I.—Fleeting Blast.

A Very Coarse Man.
Colonel Yeager, while making some purchases at the corner grocery, said to the proprietor, whose boorishness has become proverbial: "That salt you sold me was awful coarse." "It's not my fault. I didn't make it." "I know very well that you didn't make it, otherwise it would have been coarser still."—Texas Sittings.

A Frightful Loss.
Ponsenby—I saw you playing billiards last night with Littenwite. How did you come out? De Guy—Lost twelve hundred dollars on eight games. "Merciful smoke, what a loss!" "I should say so; and the worst of it was that two dollars of it was cash."—Philadelphia Call.

We are enabled to sell at such low prices in consequence of our immense trade. At times we sell two and three chests daily, and buying direct of the importers and selling direct to the consumers, enables us to save our customers the profits of the jobber, speculator and wholesale merchant, which is at least 10 to 20 per pound.

escaped from Officer Shaffer, of the police force, is again at Indianapolis. He
says that he has just come from Alaska

Col. E. L. Chittenden met the redoubtable
George on the Pacific coast.

Married, at Ashland, Ohio, yesterday
evening at half-past 6 o'clock, at the

known in this city, and Mr. Thieme is
one of our most popular young merchants. The ceremony was witnessed by a couple much happiness and joy, and may
the choicest blessings of heaven be continually upon them. They will arrive in Fort Wayne either Friday or Saturday,
and go to housekeeping at No. 28 Jackson street.

"The case of the state against Phillip
Long, charging the defendant with in-
cest goes over to the September term.
Long was arrested at Fort Wayne. Public sentiment among the neighbors of the accused is changing wonderfully in his favor, and the rash excitement of the town, in which the charge was made is giving up to solemnity and reason. The self appointed guardian and manager of the accusation, by his officious-
ness and indiscreet talk, has made himself the target of very many arrows of
suspicion. It may turn out a case of
cutting off noses to spoil, etc.," says the Columbia City Post.

Those who fail to see the "Box of Cash" at the opera house, said a recent issue of the Union (N. Y.) Observer, will
miss a very funny show. The company
opened last night to a good sized house,
which is little to be the smallest of the week. The piece is clean and free from objectionable features. Miss Edith Sinclair plays Grace Ford charmingly, and
is as well an excellent singer. Her
solo, "My Irish Home," was nicely rendered and enthusiastically received. Mr.
Favor, as "Timothy O'Hara," made a
decidedly favorable impression, and is
the best Irish comedian seen at the opera house this season. The piece will
receive its first presentation in Fort Wayne this evening at the Academy of Music, and will continue the balance of
the week.

priate quotation.

The boycott of postmasters, by dumping the mail in the caral villages around Fort Wayne, to prevent them from
making a paltry commission is over-
working mail clerks and an investigation is being secretly made by the department. There will be some mail car-

sals for the construction of the Little River ditch is published in The Sentinel, the Chicago Times, the Cincinnati
Enquirer, St. Louis Globe-Democrat,
the Toledo Blade and a few other papers.
It appears in each of the papers Thurs-
days and Saturdays until July, when
the contract is awarded, and for the publication the Cincinnati Enquirer yesterday sent in a bill for $20. It pays to advertise the work, however, as it is the biggest ditch contract over let in this

very wealthy save one or two.

LETTING UP.

The Fort Wayne Railroads Getting a Little Freight to Chicago.

The Pittsburg and Nickel Plate roads
are getting some freight to and from Chicago. The Pittsburg road sent a
train load of freight to Chicago last
night. The cars belong to other roads
and require no handling at Chicago.
Pittsburg passenger train No. 4 was delayed an hour at Chicago because the
strikers would not permit anybody to
turn a switch.

The Nickel Plate people are hopeful
and Mr. Barnard tells us that his men
are doing a light freight business. Supt.
C. D. Gorham, of the Nickel Plate, and Supt. Law, of the Pittsburg, are at Chicago, watching their interests.

This morning the Pittsburg company
engaged and collected 150 or 200 men in
the city and took them in a special train
to Chicago to handle freight there. They
are picking up men en route and the officers here are ready to employ a hundred
more men who offer their services for
good wages. It is undoubtedly the purpose of the company to refuse employment to its Chicago employees again.

The carpenters of the Pittsburg shop
at Chicago struck yesterday for eight hours and ten hours pay. This led to
the rumor that the carpenters in the
shops here had demanded similar rates,
but the local officers deny it. It is said
the carpenters will strike to-morrow and
rumors of strikes in other shops are rife,
but evidently emanate from idle tongues.

There is a belief here that the magnitude of the trouble has been withheld
from the public. The Associated Press,
however, would enter into no such arrangement as that and THE SENTINEL
readers can rely that they have the bottom facts in the Chicago riots, as well as
the troubles elsewhere.

The workmen here exhibit a dislike
for strikes and are determined to obey
Master Workman Powderly's mandate
against strikes. Strikes give socialists,
gamblers and loafers an opportunity to
murder, pillage and burn. The Knights
must stand the blunt of this fearful
work because they open the way and
give it an opportunity.

Powderly Will Not Come

Mr. T. V. Powderly, general master
workman of the Knights of Labor, re-
plying to a letter addressed to him by Mr. E. T. O'Brien, president of the Indianapolis typographical union, writing
him to fix a date when he could deliver
a lecture in Indianapolis, states that his
time is so occupied with the many duties
of his arduous position that it is quite
out of his power to comply with the request, much as he would like to do so.
Mr. Powderly has entered into an arrangement with Mr. Pond, the noted
lecture agent, to deliver fifteen lectures
next season at different points in the country. Mr. O'Brien was formerly a typo on THE SENTINEL and married a Fort Wayne girl.

A Busy Day in the Circuit Court.

Judge Edward O'Rourke transacted
this business to-day:
Margaret Bittenger vs. Alfred U.
Kelsey et al, judgment for $360.21, on notes.
State ex rel. A. L. Griebel, auditor,
vs. Margaret G. Kolly, $515.25 on a foreclosure.
Chas. S. Bush et al, vs. Henry Burgess, et al, report of Joseph H. Orr, receiver, filed and approved.
Rhessa Swinney vs. Frederick C. Barrett et al, judgment for $833.29, on a
note.

What is the Matter?

Joseph Proctor played to less than fifty people at the Temple open house
last night. His "Virginia" was good
and his support was excellent. He de-
serves better patronage, but there is no
prospect that he will fare better to-night,
when he presents "Nick of the Woods."
The Academy is doing nothing and
this fact proves that prices have nothing
to do with the dullness. There seems to
be no money for amusements, or else
the fancy of the people lightly turns to pianos, spring poetry and love.

Almost as Good as New.

If you have a suit of clothes that is
soiled and unfit to wear, you can have
it made almost as good as new by enling
on Mr. G. Schroeder, 129 Calhoun street.
He is not only a practical tailor, but a
renovator and cleaner that has few
equals anywhere. He has worked in Fort Wayne for thirty-five years, and is well known by all our people. He has
conducted business at his present stand
for over sixteen years. He will not injure the cloth, but make it bright and sparkle like new goods. You can have
your old suit for a very small sum, made
to look like a new wedding suit. Do
not throw away your clothes, take them
to him and have them done over, renovated and cleaned. You will never regret it after you see them finished. 4-31

Dr. Warner's Corsets must go, if reduced prices will do it.
SAMUEL CHASKA.

A DUDE'S FALL.

Charley Cornwell, Formerly a Ft.
Wayne Bank Clerk, Gets
Two Years.

A special dispatch from Washington
to the Indianapolis Journal says: "Chas.
Cornwell, for several years book-keeper
in national banks at Logansport and
Fort Wayne, and lately in the employ of Kendall & Co., hardware merchants, of
this city, and sentenced in the criminal
court here, Saturday, to two years in the
penitentiary upon conviction of house-
breaking, will probably be pardoned before he is sent to the penitentiary. Senator Voorhees and Representative Owen
have interested themselves in behalf of Cornwell, and have procured a stay of
execution of sentence till the application
for a pardon can be acted upon. Corn-
well was found on the premises of Kendall & Co. after he was discharged, and
after business hours, with duplicate keys
on his person, and as some goods were
missing he was suspected of taking
them. For some time Cornwell has been disappearing. He has a brother in the government printing office, and has other
reputable relatives here."
Cornwell used to hold a clerical position in the Hamilton bank. He was a
dude and society petted him.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Eighty-five associations own now buildings valued at $3,936,231. The St. Joseph (Mo.) association has $65,000 of the $100,000 required for their new building, five citizens giving $5,000 each to the fund.—Y. M. C. A. Watchman.

At the time of the erection of the An-burn (N. Y.) association building the city had a population of 26,000. The lot is 173x41 feet, and cost $14,000. The building and all, when completed, cost $60,000.

The Dayton (O.) building cost $1 per capita. This building, in a small city, cost $2.35 per capita. The lower floor of the building contains two stores, but the rest is given entirely to the work of the association.

At Indianapolis but $18,000 is yet required to put up a magnificent Y. M
